

COX BACKS CHARGES WITH OFFICIAL G. O. P. DATA; NOMINEE GOT HOLD OF "PHONY LIST", SAYS UPHAM

Quota List Produced By Nominee To Back Charge Of Fifteen Million Slush Fund

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Governor Cox, Democratic presidential nominee, indicated here today that he would make further "exposés" of Republican campaign funds within a week.

Having here for scarcely more than an hour, on his way from Pittsburgh to New Haven, Governor Cox conferred with party leaders, on the effect of his speech in Pittsburgh last night, at which he presented information tending to show that the Republican slush fund, a $15,000,000 fund to "buy" the presidency, "Then, just before his train pulled out, he received newspaper news."

Will Have New Leads

Asked if he would press his charges further, Mr. Cox replied:

"Yes, you will have new leads in a week, I think."

Referring to an announcement from Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee, that individual campaign contributions would be restricted to $1,000, Mr. Cox said:

"Mr. Hays knows that such a statement is not true. The methods used by the Republicans are to get some big fellow to give $20,000 or $25,000 after which 10 or 20 dummy names are written down as contributors on the party's books. No one needs to worry about my not naming the sources of the funds which I have accused the Republicans of raising."

Mr. Cox said that if the senate committee investigating campaign funds really wished him to appear before it in Chicago, he would do so.

"The senate committee now has the necessary leads. If it wishes to investigate, it will call in Republican state leaders and learn from them who the county and city leaders are and they will tell the details. I have every confidence that the senate committee will go to the bottom of my charges."

Still Sticks to Prediction

"A year ago I said that the Republicans were going back to the methods of Mark Hanna and that they would be defeated with their own money. This is still my belief."

When Governor Cox was asked about reports concerning Democratic financial failure of a year ago, he said:

"I came on board the Democratic ship July 7. I know nothing about what happened before that time."

Found Deficit But No Money

"One thing I can tell you, though, is that I found a deficit but no money."

"It was not a wholly political receipt that awaited Governor Cox here. At the station, too, were James M. Cox, Jr., now a student at a military academy, and Dan Mahoney, son-in-law of Governor."

James, Jr., sprang a sensation of his when he announced to newspaper men that he was planning to accompany his father on his western campaign trip. Mr. Mahoney, however, took to the youngsters to announce that his father had not been informed of plans and that the announcement of James Junior "was considerably in error as he was going back to

Portsmouth Raised Quota

At One Meeting

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27.—Governor James M. Cox in backing up his charges of a $15,000,000 Republican slush fund, with excerpts from a Republican official bulletin during the course of his address said:

"According to the Bulletin of August 16 Portsmouth is not in the Ohio list, yet the Bulletin of August 10 says 'Portsmouth raised its quota at one meeting.'"

School September 16."

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 27.—Information to support his charges that a Republican campaign fund exceeding $15,000,000 was being raised in a conspiracy to buy the presidency, was presented by Gov. Cox, Democratic presidential nominee, in addressing a public meeting here tonight.

Governor Cox's data consisted almost entirely of matter taken from the "Official Bulletin" of Fred W. Upham of Chicago, treasurer of the Republican National committee, but his chief exhibit was a typewritten list purporting to show Republican campaign quotas imposed on 51 principal cities in 27 states and aggregating $8,145,000.

Local Subscribers Kept Secret

Names of local subscribers, Gov. Cox said, were ordered kept secret. These quotas, given as $2,000,000 for New York City, $150,000 for Chicago, $300,000 for Philadelphia and ranging down to $25,000 for smaller cities like Albany, N. Y., and Atlanta, Ga., were said by Gov. Cox to have been announced about the middle of July.

Harding Acquainted With Facts

That Senator Harding "was acquainted with the details" of the quota plan and that it was also approved by Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee and Treasurer Upham, was charged by the Democratic candidate.

From subsequent issues of the "Official Bulletin" Gov. Cox quoted many reports from Republican workers throughout the country reporting "going over the top" and in excess of the alleged quotas.

Announcement of the $8,145,000 metropolitan quota, Gov. Cox said, was made by Harry M. Blair, assistant to Treasurer Upham. A meeting was held in Chicago, Gov. Cox said, at which Will H. Hays "spoke his blessings."

Produced Quota List

The governor charged that typewritten sheets bearing the 51 cities quota were "distributed to those assembled" and he produced one of the alleged quota lists, but did not state

He plans to tour the country and to thrill the crowds not only by the same feats performed by the late Locklear, but by several of his own.

THE "SOVIET NAPOLEON" REPLACED BY TROTSKY

WARSAW, Aug. 26.—By The Associated Press.—General Tuchaevski, known as the "Soviet Napoleon," has been relieved of his post as commander in chief of the Bolshevik army on the Polish front, because of his failure to take Warsaw, according to information given to the press here.

Leon Trotsky, Bolshevik minister of war and marine, has personally taken command of the army, it is reported by Bolshevik officers who have been taken prisoner.

General Tuchaevski has had a remarkable career in the Russian army. He is of noble birth, and at the outbreak of the World War was captured by the Germans. Later he escaped and resumed his place in the army, rising to the rank of lieutenant.

When the Soviet government was established, he was promoted, and rose to high command, being credited with the defeat of Admiral Kolchak in Siberia and General Denikin in southern Russia. He is only 23 years old.

CANTON, O., Aug. 27.—Between 800 and 1,000 men of the night force of the Timken Roller Bearing company have received notice that there will be no more night work for them for two weeks. Officials of the company said that the step was taken as an adjustment to meet conditions.

They said the lay-off may be permanent and that such men as can be accommodated may be added to the day force in event that the night work force should be indefinitely discontinued. Present plans, however, say the officials, call for a suspension of night work for the number named during a period of inventory.

WAR PRESS PESSIMISTIC

WARSAW, Aug. 26.—(By The Associated Press)—The war press is becoming pessimistic regarding the Minsk peace negotiations.

The newspapers, with the exception of Socialist journals, express the belief that the moment is propitious to "liquidate Bolshevism." In some political circles there are indications of an increasing feeling that the negotiations may come to nothing although there have been official announcements to the contrary.

PLOTTED TO KILL COMISKEY

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Confession of a plot to shoot Charles A. Comiskey, baseball magnate and the office force and police guard at the White Sox baseball park box office September 16, was made to police today by the three boy bandits who were arrested yesterday in an attempted robbery of a $40,000 pay roll of Wilson and company, stock yards packers.

According to the police, the three said that they intended to steal the pay receipts of the White Sox-Yankee game September 16, when they figured "Babe" Ruth would draw a record-breaking attendance. They said they also planned "to shoot the witnesses," knowing that Comiskey was not permitted by his physicians to watch the games and that he was in the box office every afternoon.

They told the police that yesterday they planned to kill the bank messengers and escape with the $40,000 pay roll.

James Ryan, one of the trio, was identified at the state's attorneys' office as a member of the gang that shot and killed Detective Sergeant Frank McGurk recently, while the detective was defending a vinegar company's plant against a robber's raid.

However, it had fallen by that time to 389,000,000, which led to the conclusion by Danish statistical experts that the loss of actual and potential human life in these nations, aggregated forty millions.

Causes of mortality, epidemic outbreaks, rate due to mobilization of fifty-six million men between 20 and 45 years of age, 20,200,000.

Somebody Played A Joke On Gov. Cox, Says Upham; 'Democrats Dreaming In Millions.'

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Governor James M. Cox's schedule of Republican campaign fund quotas in 51 principal cities is a "phony list which I never heard of before," Fred W. Upham, Republican national treasurer, declared today on his return from New York. "Somebody must have played a joke on the governor," Mr. Upham declared.

The Republican national committee has never apportioned any quotas to cities, Mr. Upham said. "The only quotas assigned, he added, were given to states, the money to be used for both state and national campaign purposes. Each state committee then apportioned its quota as it thought best."

Denying charges that vast amounts had been collected or were being collected, the Republican treasurer exhibited a statement showing collections up to this morning total $1,017,255.32, of which New York state, including the city of New York, gave $225,292.40, he said.

He reiterated the statement of Chairman Hays that the budget planned for the national campaign totaled slightly in excess of $3,000,000 and denied Governor Cox's charge that he was planning to raise in excess of $15,000,000.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee, replying to the speech of Governor Cox in Pittsburgh last night, in which the Democratic presidential nominee sought to prove that Republicans were conspiring to buy the presidency, declared that Mr. Cox had such "intimate knowledge of the warring of millions in aircraft production" during the war, that he "dreamed in millions."

After studying Mr. Cox's speech Mr. Hays issued the following statement at Republican headquarters:

"Of course Candidate Cox fails to prove, as he has failed to prove, and will fail to prove, his charges. This is simply because the charges are false."

Cuts It Down To Eight Million

"He says millions have been put into the Republican national committee by sinister influences to corrupt the election. He first is reported to have said a hundred million. Then Secretary Roosevelt said thirty million. Then Candidate Cox said fifteen million, while now Candidate Cox says eight million."

"He attempts to prove this by quoting from the official bulletin of the ways and means committee of the Republican national committee, a pamphlet published every few days, and sent broadcast over the country to party members and to newspapers, all to instill interest among the workers, and from an alleged quota sheet which he claims indicates the amounts to be raised in certain cities, which he does not even charge was adopted by any operation had thereunder."

"They Dream In Millions

"Candidate Cox, himself a millionaire, has, but such intimate knowledge of the warring of millions in aircraft production in his state and Secretary Roosevelt has had such an intimate knowledge of the burning of billions by the administration of which he has been an important part that these men dream in millions."

"They will have an opportunity in Chicago to prove this insult to the thousands of good citizens all over the country which are counted in the Republican party."

"Incidentally they will have a chance next week to indicate the source of their own money; both of their national committee and other agencies outside of their national committee raising money to try to aid in Republican headquarters."

Presidential Campaign Just Begun, Fireworks Galore Are Promised

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright By Times Publishing Co.)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27.—Where does the line begin and end between expenditures for a national and state ticket? Usually the political mass meetings have included speakers for all candidates and literature and postage have often embraced national and state tickets.

Mainly the whole case of Governor Cox rests upon the charge that the Republicans planned a fund of $15,000,000 for the whole campaign and that the national organization set for the individual states huge quotas, only a part of which would be certified to as having been spent for the national ticket.

Of course, all the sums mentioned were estimates and very little money has actually been received by either the Democratic or the Republican national committees thus far, most of it being in pledges. The Democrats have collected less than $50,000 and their effort is to make it just as hard for the Republicans to collect much more, though the latter have admitted collecting $300,000 thus far.

Charges Previously Made

Governor Cox in selecting the $15,000,000 figure as the basis for his charge of lavish expenditures is really not saying anything new. The Democrats here for the Cox speech pointed to several newspaper articles written as early as January of this year concerning Republican finance plans. One of these articles was a seven column affair in the Brooklyn Eagle with the headline "To Raise $15,000,000 To Elect G. O. P. President In 1920." Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee, to collect and control greatest campaign fund in American history."

Local U. S. Marines Make Good

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—My shoot with a keen eye, a strong hold, and a steady hand, Private Robert Mitchell, 1115 Second street, Portsmouth, O., has qualified as a Marksman with the U. S. Marines, according to an official report from the local Marine Recruiting Station.

Shooting is always attractive, and shooting the Marine Corps way is doubly so. The Marine Corps way is nothing more or less than hitting the target. Every effort is made to qualify men on the rifle range, which not only gives them increased pay but makes them more valuable to themselves and to the service. The showing made by the Marines in all prize and championship shoots speaks well for the coaching and training they receive along these lines. Mitchell is now serving with the Marines at Headquarters, Washington, D. C.

Money Couldn't Buy Good It Did Her

"All the money in the world couldn't buy the good Tanlac I have done me," was the emphatic statement of Mrs. Mary Savage, of 515 Second St., Huntington, W. Va., the other day.

"Since I began taking Tanlac I have gained fifteen pounds in weight and look at me no one would think that just a month ago I was in bed without much hope of ever being well."

"I suffered for five years from the worst form of indigestion. Everything I ate disagreed with me, and after meals I had such feelings of nausea and times that I couldn't retain a thing on my stomach. I had a burning sensation all through my chest and was so affected with gas I couldn't walk a block without being out of breath."

"I was badly constipated and very nervous and had spells of dizziness. When everything whirled around me and I felt like I would fall over. My head ached for three or four days at a time and sometimes felt like it would burst and I never knew what it was to get a good night's sleep."

"I spent money enough for medicines and treatment to make a comfortable bank account, but with it all kept getting worse until last September I had to take to my bed."

"But now I feel as well as I ever did in my life, and I cannot describe the happiness I feel over what Tanlac has done for me."

"I am hungry all the time and can eat anything and everything without feeling a touch of indigestion. I no longer suffer from headaches and constipation and am never bothered with nausea or dizziness. I sleep soundly every night, never waking up once, and in the morning feel fresh and vigorous."

"There is a bottle of Tanlac in my house right now, that I wouldn't take anything for if I knew I couldn't get another. I never expect to be without it."

"Tanlac is sold in Portsmouth by the Fisher and Stretch Pharmacy and by the leading druggists in every town."

James Turner Steps Off Curbing; Is Hit By Auto; Dies

Well Known Colored Citizen Is Almost Instantly Killed; On Ninth St. By Multer Car

James H. Turner, 61, a well-known colored citizen, who made his home with William L. Cornute, 924 Ninth street, was struck and instantly killed by an automobile driven by Fred Multer at 5:00 o'clock Thursday evening, as he was crossing the street near Ninth and Findlay streets.

In the Multer machine were Multer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman P. Multer, 735 Seventh street, and Oscar Sampson, 725 Seventh street, who shared the front seat with Multer.

The accident was witnessed by Wm. L. Cornute, Mrs. Lillian Holman, 928 Ninth street, Mrs. Frank Mingo, 930 Ninth street, Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, 925 Ninth street, and Miss Anna T. Smith, 302 Ninth.

According to some of those who say they were eye-witnesses to the tragic affair, Multer was driving at a rapid rate when his machine struck the man, although Mr. Multer and son strenuously denied last night the report that they were exceeding the speed limit, and declared that the car was being driven at only a fair rate of speed, and he had slowed down at the intersection.

Mr. Multer Gives Version of Accident

According to Multer, he was driving west on Ninth street and had almost reached Findlay street, when he says he saw a machine coming south on Findlay street. In order to allow the other car to pass, he swerved to the left, this bringing his car past the center of the street, and proceeded down Ninth street. As he passed the intersection, Multer says, he noticed Turner ahead crossing the street, about 100 feet west of the intersection, and just two doors east of his home. Turner had almost gained the center of the street, and apparently had not noticed the oncoming machine, according to Multer. In order to pass behind the man, Multer says he swerved his car slightly to the left, and was a few feet from him, when Turner looked up, bewildered and stopped, then jumped into the path of the machine, according to Multer.

Turner's head was mashed about the left ear, his neck and collar-bone were broken; his left arm above the elbow was broken and also his right leg. William Cornute and three other men picked up the body and laid it on the grass. Fred Multer stopped his machine after the car had skidded twenty to thirty feet, to within six feet of the south curb in front of the Cornute home, and ran to the office of Dr. S. S. Halderman. Dr. Halderman was followed by Dr. Albert Berndt, but medical aid was of no use, and the lifeless form was carried into the Cornute home.

Police Captain Startzman, Officers Flowers, Payne, Powers and Odie, with a Times man, were soon on the scene.

Coroner Hendrickson Seen On The Scene

Coroner J. D. Hendrickson was summoned, and stated that he would conduct a thorough investigation of the regrettable affair, with a view toward fixing responsibility for the fatality. It is probable the testimony of all the eye-witnesses will be heard at once.

Police Captain Startzman stated that the police department would thoroughly investigate the accident. He refused to make a statement other than to say that there were conflicting reports of the causes of the accident, and that he intends to probe it thoroughly.

The tracks of the machine where the tires had skidded were plainly seen last night.

Mr. Cornute Talks About Fatality

Discussing the fatality with a Times man last night, Wm. L. Cornute declared that Multer was driving on the left side of the street, and coming at a fast speed, when the accident occurred.

"Turner had just left my home when he was killed. He had started for the Lincoln theatre and a moment after he had stepped off the curbing he was killed," Cornute said last night. "I heard Multer's machine coming and when it neared the corner I saw that poor Jim would not get out of its path. He was knocked down and dragged possibly 20 feet. I was standing in front of my home and was watching Turner leave when the accident occurred. I will insist that it be investigated from all angles."

F. Multer, late last night told a Times man that he felt deeply grieved over the regrettable affair, and says it could not be averted. He is 18, and a student in the local high school, where he is prominent in athletics.

James Turner was a life long resident of Portsmouth, having been born on the West Side. For many years he was in the employ of the late Dr. C. M. Finch; after his death, he entered the employ of George D. Selby as caretaker about the Selby home.

Mr. Selby was quickly on the scene of the accident last night, and said that Turner has been a reliable and trustworthy employee about his home for the past 25 years. Mr. Selby examined several witnesses and carefully looked into the accident. He made a personal survey of the scene.

The deceased is survived by his niece, Mrs. Wm. L. Cornute, a brother, Joseph Turner, and a half-brother, Alfred Smith, all of this city.

Funeral services will be held from the Cornute home on Ninth street at 2 p. m. Saturday. Burial will be in Greenlawn.

Rev. Thomas A. Green will have charge of the last rites.

MISS DOLLY WISE

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—Is a license required in this state in order to pursue private detective work? If so what is the fee and what are the requirements?
ASPIRING SLEUTH.

It isn't necessary to have a license, but if you want to be an authorized detective you will have to get a commission from the government. You will have to furnish references or have the backing of several influential citizens before you can get a commission. There is only a nominal fee to cover costs of issuing certificate.

Dear Dolly—There are two good looking fellows on Second street who holler at me every time I pass there on my way to work. Now Dolly tell me a good way to find out if they are married, and a good way to meet them. What would you do?
A PHRASE.

I'd charge my route and go down another street. Men who "holler" at girls are not worth meeting.

Dear Dolly—I received an invitation to a church wedding and expect to attend. Is it customary that I give a gift and if so, what? Also, where should I spend gift if I cannot go. Please answer in tonight's Times as I wish to know at once. Thank you.
MRS. A. H. C.

If you are invited to witness the church ceremony only, it is not necessary to send a gift. An invitation to a church wedding is often an empty compliment, especially if the ceremony is to be followed by a house reception to which many others are invited. However if you want to send a present, you may send it to the bride any time after receiving the invitation to the wedding. The kind of gift you give will depend upon your pocketbook and the close friendship that exists between yourself and the bride couple.

Dear Dolly—Please give me a recipe for making pimiento peppers and also how to prepare the home grown pimientos with cheese.
THANK YOU.

An easy way to can pimientos is to soak in hot water and then can in glass jars with pure elder vinegar. Another way is to remove seeds and blanch by plunging into boiling water for fifteen or twenty minutes. Remove from this and place immediately in cold water.

IF YOU ARE 40 YEARS OF AGE

It is about time that you began to think of helping your eyes when you do near work. You may never have had to wear glasses before, but from now on you are going to be reminded often and often that your eyes are not as young as they used to be. Whatever you do, don't strain them. Get a pair of reading glasses here, and wear them whenever you do close work. In that way you will conserve your sight, and do yourself good in other ways.

BATTLESHIP Coffee

Battleship Coffee is such good coffee that it makes a perfect iced drink. And how good it is on a hot day! As fresh and delicious as a breath of green woodland and refreshing as a brisk October day. Everyone you know will appreciate it. Ask your grocer.

Coffee—The Perfect Drink

The Canby, Ach & Canby Co. Dayton, Ohio

Dear Dolly—What do you think of the parents of boys who allow them to carry sling-shots, black-jacks, and clubs around to "get" other boys and then will tell lies on the other boys and try to get them in trouble, or have them arrested. Please give me your honest opinion of the parents and their boys.
A BOY FRIEND.

I don't like to express my opinion without knowing more about the boys and their parents. Sometimes boys will do things their parents know nothing about; again parents are responsible for many bad habits that little boys acquire early in life. The average boy deserves more sympathy than can be put in words, and if his parents permit him to do as he pleases they certainly are going to experience a lot of heartaches and misery later on. A "bad boy" is, nearly always, a neglected youngster or one who is allowed too much freedom at home. On the other hand the small boy who receives proper training, and whose parents are blessed with common sense, gets more happiness out of life than does his small neighbor who is permitted to roam at will. We all know that the boy who is not, to some extent, under restraint, or whose indulgent or selfish parents never concern themselves as to what concerns him, will in almost every instance, deteriorate into a good-for-nothing grown-up; and he may even go further on the downward path—turn to a criminal career, and thus bring shame and sorrow to his parents, who as a general rule, therefore while he is comparatively young and helpless it remains for his mother to keep watch over him and train him in the way that he ought to go. If she will do this, she will have nothing to regret or answer for, even if he does stray from the straight and narrow path later in life.

SOCIETY

The First Baptist church auditorium was filled with those interested in music Thursday evening, when Miss Fern Curry Wheeler, a student at the Dennton University Conservatory of Music, gave a delightfully varied program of organ music.

Miss Wheeler was assisted by Mrs. Edith Rowe Knowles, soprano, of Augusta, Ga., who is visiting with her mother, Mrs. C. W. Rowe of Seventh street, and by Mr. Fred Arrington, cornetist.

Mrs. Knowles' voice is a pure soprano of rare quality, even register and flexibility, which was brought out in her song, "Christ in Flanders."

A cornet solo, "Berceuse from Jocelyn," by Mr. Arrington, with organ accompaniment, was particularly beautiful, the melody of the high notes of the cornet blending sweetly with the fuller tones of the organ.

Miss Wheeler, who will soon enter upon her third year at Dennton, displayed unusual talent for organ music in her recital. The most accurate care was bestowed upon the phrasing, which was demanded by the different composers represented.

The program was arranged as follows:

- "Prelude in A Minor"..... Ashford
- "Benedictus"..... Barton
- "The Message"..... Brooks
- "Epithalamium"..... Matthews
- "Elegie"..... Muscotte
- "Christ in Flanders"..... Mrs. Knowles
- "Song of Joy"..... Fryberger
- "Offertory"..... Lybach
- "Berceuse from Jocelyn"..... Godard
- "No. 1, G Minor"..... Godard
- "Andante Moderato"..... Intermzzo
- "Finale, Allegro Marziale"..... Storck

Augusta, Ga., who is visiting here, and Mrs. Cluett Stephenson of Twenty-first street, will go to Russell, Ky., next week to visit Mrs. Oscar Riggs.

The young couple will make a tour of the South in their car, stopping over at Portsmouth, and after a visit with relatives here will drive through to Tennessee, where the groom's mother resides. ## Louise Glaum the Famous Actress Says Show Me a Homely Girl or Women and I'll Show You a Neglected Complexion.

With a Soft, Pearl-Like Velvety Skin Every Woman Would Be Attractive. Nothing So Good for the Skin as Ordinary Oatmeal.

New York—"The girl or woman who is panned by without a glance of admiration has only herself to blame," says Louise Glaum, the beautiful actress now starring in the J. Parker Reed, Jr. production, "The Girl Who Stole the Diamonds." Through following the simple combination given below it is now possible for every girl and woman to have an attractive, rose-white, beautiful complexion, free from freckles, wrinkles, blackheads, pimples, coarse or large pores, tan, dark skin, sallowness or roughness. A few minutes night and morning is all the time required. Just follow the advice of Louise Glaum and the wonderful effect of the simple combination will please and surprise you. This method may be used without the least fear of harmful results and will not produce or stimulate a growth of hair. Here is the formula: Go to any grocery store and get 25 cents worth of oatmeal and then any drug store a bottle of Derwillo. Then cleanse your skin with a moist cold cream (Black Cream I have found to be the best). Put a little of the oatmeal in a tea made of three cups, drop on or into the bag from the twenty drops of Derwillo and use the same as you would a wash cloth. Use in combination regularly. A large number of the leading actresses of this country now use Derwillo in preference to all other beautifiers. Many prepare their own cream, using white and other delicate drugs, with dry out the skin and thus the pores thus preventing them from doing the work nature intended them to do. Derwillo contains nothing of this kind and is prepared under scientific sterilized sanitary conditions by an expert who has had years of experience in manufacturing beauty products. Measured by results you get more for your money by using Derwillo than any other beautifier. Oatmeal when used with Derwillo has an astonishing effect. It softens, cleanses and makes strong healthy skin tissues. It brings back to the skin that youthful, peach-like coloring every normal woman craves. Now that short sleeves are in vogue you will want beautiful hands and arms. There is nothing like oatmeal and Derwillo for this purpose. A few weeks use of this combination and your friends will comment favorably on your improved appearance. Those who look old are those with a haggard, loose, wrinkled, muddy skin. Miss Louise Glaum follows this method herself and recommends it to her most intimate friends who are just as enthusiastic over it as you are. You can not afford to devote a few minutes each day to the care of your skin and if you do you will soon notice a wonderful improvement in your appearance. Just try it once and note the difference. Its use will make you look ten years younger.

NOTE—When asked about Derwillo one of our leading druggists said: "It is truly a wonderful beautifier, away ahead of anything we have ever sold before. We are authorized by the manufacturers to refund the money to anyone who is dissatisfied. This guarantee would not be possible unless the product possessed unusual merit. It is sold in this city under a money-back guarantee by all the druggists and department stores and druggists including Flood & Blake and Fisher & Stock.

TEACHERS INSTITUTE CLOSSES TODAY

Social Session Last Night A Fine Event

Thursday evening the teachers attending the Scioto County Teachers' Institute, gathered at the Glenwood high school first floor corridor and auditorium, enjoyed a delightful social evening. The affair was in the nature of a large reception, as teachers and speakers at the institute renewed old acquaintances or received introductions. Games were played and a general good time was enjoyed. The teachers were placed in groups according to their birthday months, and "pitted" against each other in exciting contests. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served at the conclusion of the evening.

The closing sessions today were as full of interest and enthusiasm as the first programs. Despite the inclemency, the weather did not cause the attendance to fall off in the least. Miss Esther Corn, a teacher of the first grade of Glenwood high, sang at the beginning of the Friday program.

Prof. D. H. Scudder of Miami University was the first speaker of the morning. He talked upon the principles of education. "The Teaching of Writing," a continuation of his former discourse was given by J. F. Powers, the arm movement expert from the Economy-Writing company.

Mrs. Margaret Quinn Finney played several instrumental selections and Miss Gertrude Davidson and Ruth Finch sang at the song service period. This afternoon, delighting the audience with their musical talent.

The following resolutions were drawn up by the Committee on Resolutions:

RESOLUTIONS

We, the Committee on Resolutions, appointed by the Scioto County Teachers' Institute, hereby submit the following:

Whereas, the County Board of Education has made possible this Institute; Be it resolved that we extend to said board our sincere thanks.

Be it further resolved that we extend our thanks to the New Boston Board of Education for the use of their beautiful Glenwood high school building; and our appreciation to the people of New Boston for their courtesies and co-operation.

Especially do we express our gratitude to the instructors, Mrs. F. T. Cartwright, Dr. M. A. Leiper, Prof. G. H. Teach and Prof. J. F. Powers; to the musical directors, Miss Gertrude Davidson and Mrs. Margaret Quinn Finney, and to all others who contributed to the success of this institute.

Resolved that we endorse county uniformity of text books and the uniform course of study now prevailing; that we approve and endorse the text books selected by the County and District Superintendents; and regard any adoption that break uniformity as detrimental to our schools. We severely condemn the action of any company, individual or group of individuals who seek to break the uniformity of said course.

Resolved that we express our appreciation to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and to the Superintendent of the county for working out a salary schedule and securing its approval and adoption, and to the various Boards of Education throughout the county for adopting the same and for their splendid efforts in securing the passage of the three mill levy. We further resolve to uphold the schedule and urge all teachers not to accept a salary less than he or she is entitled to under it.

Resolved that we go on record as favoring the free text book system and recommend its early adoption. We also urge strict compliance with the law in regard to the proper display of the flag.

Special recognition is made of the services of County Superintendent E. O. McCowan and his helpers in conducting the affairs of the schools of Scioto county, Ohio.

Respectfully submitted,

Albert S. Romer, Chairman.
Leslie O. Allen.
Mary Lois Erwin.
Stella J. Barney.
Anna Kanneise.
Charles V. Smith.

Commercial Enthusiasm

Gov. Cox reacted here the Republican way and means committee was organized last December and the work, he said, was "vigorously pushed from the first."

"It is local chairman he said, were 'business men, in most instances very wealthy men' in this connection he quoted from a letter of John Kirby, Jr., chairman of the Dayton, Ohio, committee of Feb. 7th last, stating:

"This is purely a business man's move."

"It took on the impetus of a commercial enthusiasm," Gov. Cox continued.

Organize Every County

"The philosophy running through all the literature as emphasized by the recurrent terms of salesmanship. The plan was not only to organize every state, but every county in the United States. Delicate quotas were established in precisely the same manner the Liberty Loan campaigns were conducted; population and bank deposits apparently being the base of calculations. In addition to the local chairmen, state managers were engaged and traveling representatives operated between them and the community organizations.

Calls 'Em Money Diggers

Gov. Cox described the fund managers in the various districts as "money diggers" and continued: "The sum of $3,145,000 is to come not from 27 states but from the largest cities in 27 states," said the governor. "New York state is represented by only four places New York City, Buffalo, Rochester and Albany and yet Franklin D. Roosevelt announces that the county of Dutchess, a suburban and rural community was assessed $32,000."

The Columbus, O., quota is $100,000 and yet in the bulletin of August 10, a telegram from Columbus is inserted containing these reassuring words:

"Then too, the end is not yet, for it is probably the sum of $10,000 for the state and national treasury will stand to the credit of Columbus before the first day of September." This is how it was done: Two busy men gave two hours a day for ten consecutive days in interviewing and soliciting and they turned the trick. Every state director

every city director, can do like Kelly did—get the right men to get the right people. Do it quickly and systematically."

Portsmouth Quota Quickly Raised

"In this week, according to the bulletin of August 16, that 'uncanny' business men have underwritten quotas to be delivered by September first."

By that we are to understand that a group of business men produced the money and they are to be collecting later. The point is, however, that the cash has gone to the treasury. Portsmouth is not in the Ohio list, yet the bulletin of Aug. 15 says Portsmouth raised its quota at one meeting.

Heavy Overabundance

Governor Cox quoted quite extensively from the official bulletin in regard to various other states and county quotas, stating that many already have over subscribed their allotment and were working for more. His speech was cheerful and then again as he made his thrusts at the Republican organization.

The governor reiterated his statement that making interest was planning to drive the federal reserve bank and declared that every dollar bank had been assessed $200 each for the Republican fund, according to community reports.

Accepts Bays Challenge

Gov. Cox closed his statements on contributions that "When my challenge of a corruption fund was first made with Mr. Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee made a bold front in Ross of Ohio. If at the instance of our acceptance this challenge is fully met, let it be a question of moral character as to who is the greater patriot and more honest citizen. We should not meet that issue as we should not meet that issue as we should not meet that issue as we should not meet that issue as we should not meet that issue as we should not meet that issue as we should not meet that issue as we spent under the direction of Mark Hanna in 1896 to accomplish the election of William McKinley, and the Hanna campaign fund is generally credited with holding the record.

Consolidating Campaign Funds

"In aiming at $10,000,000 the Republicans are not figuring to double or treble the amount ordinarily spent in a national campaign, although unquestionably they will speed far more than ever before. They are consolidating all campaign financial activities in one huge fund rather than having the national committee raise its own separate fund and all the state and local committees footings on the old basis of making their own collections. x x x

"The state committees are turning over their subscriptions lists to the national committee. The latter plans to receive all subscriptions. It will gather money from persons who have hitherto subscribed only to state or local campaign funds. County and other local committees are expected to fall into line with the national committee plan. There will be one great collection agency and one great disbursing agency. By centralization of finance the Republicans hope not only to eliminate a great deal of waste that has characterized campaigns in the past but to spend their campaign funds in a more scientific manner and place where it will do the most good."

Some Charges Against Democrats

While the Democrats were bombarding the Republicans' finance plans E. H. Hudson, formerly editor of the Liquor Dealers' Journal made public in a telegram to Senator Kenyon, chairman of the Senate investigating committee, a charge that has been commonly rumored in this section of Pennsylvania namely, that bootleggers are obtaining whiskey from distillers under medicinal permits and selling it at high profits and putting a share in the Cox campaign fund. Prominent Democratic politicians in Pennsylvania are alleged to be involved and Mr. Hudson is urging the Senatorial investigating committee to probe the charge.

Really the presidential campaign has just begun.

One Dies; Four In Serious Condition Result Of Drinking Wood Alcohol

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 27.—Leon Maddox is dead and four other employees of the Huddlestone Lumber company were in a serious condition last night as the result of drinking liquor supposed to have contained wood alcohol or other poisonous substance.

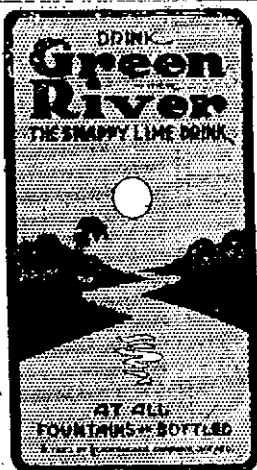

Seven employees of the company were given a half holiday to attend the Lawrence County Fair at Proctorville, Ohio, and went to Proctorville in an automobile driven by Edmund

Johnson. In Proctorville of Huntington, the men declined to alight which, they secured two quarts of what was supposed to be bottled in bond whiskey. All drank of it at Proctorville with the exception of the chauffeur.

On their return to Huntington five of the men were taken violently ill and Maddox, who is from Ravenswood, W. Va., died within a short time. Three other men, Ray Smith, Charles Miller and Gilbert Stack, all of this city, were taken to a local hospital all suffering from some form of alcoholic poison. Smith declined to stay at the hospital after being given first aid and left without the knowledge of the hospital authorities. Shortly before midnight he was found wandering the streets in a delirious condition and was returned to the hospital where he is in a very critical state. The other members of the party are believed to have imbibed rather lightly of the liquor as none of them suffered any serious effect.

All the men except the one who died were able to converse with the authorities but all absolutely refused to give any information of where they had purchased the liquor or from whom.

After a bridal trip to Columbus, Cleveland and Springfield in their motor car they will return here and go to housekeeping. Mr. Robman is a splendid young man and came here from Pittsburgh. Miss Flowers is the attractive daughter of Officer Charles (Pete) Flowers.

He also urged a rigid censorship of records in music and said suggestive lyrics should be discontinued.

During the afternoon J. Warren Murray of this city and F. C. Gordon a professional of Chillicothe staged an exhibition game. Mr. Gordon made the nine hole course in 35, which is the best score that has been made this season on the local links. Bogie is 41 and par is 34 so it can be seen that Gordon played with unusual skill and proved himself one of the best players ever seen on the local links. In the men's doubles Friedman and Kerst of Chillicothe defeated Hyland and Taylor of this city 6-0, 6-0 and 6-4. The Chillicothe players had the best of the contest from the start and won easily though superior playing. During the progress of the games lunch was served at the club and at the conclusion of the matches the contestants repaired to the Elk Club where they enjoyed a chicken dinner. When searched at police headquarters it was discovered that Grooms had crammed his pockets full of small articles taken from the store, the police say.

D. I. Peters, who is connected with the store, later filed an affidavit charging the prisoner with shoplifting and he is held pending his hearing in Municipal court.

POLITICS

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 27.—The next subject of the United States will contain a woman if the suggestion of W. A. Julian, of Cincinnati, democratic candidate for the United States senate in the Buckeye state is adopted.

Candidate Julian arrived in Columbus Wednesday to confer with Governor Cox, the democratic candidate for president, on the question of appointing a woman to the cabinet of the democratic ticket is elected this fall. Mr. Julian will take up the subject with Governor Cox on the latter's return from the east.

"With the ratification of the federal suffrage amendment by the Tennessee legislature more than one half of the citizenship of the United States is enfranchised," said Mr. Julian on Wednesday. "These 27,000,000 new voters are certainly entitled to representation in the cabinet."

"I have no fear that women cannot discharge with great credit to her citizenship the duties of a cabinet position. There are many brilliant, capable and efficient women in this country who would serve in a cabinet position with distinction and honor."

"I purpose advocating the appointment of a woman to the cabinet as soon as I can see Governor Cox. Women by their splendid record in many lines of work during the late war demonstrated their executive and administrative ability. Recognitions of their worth by calling one of their number to a responsible cabinet position would be an act of simple justice."

Candidate Julian has some clear-cut ideas on the necessity of enlarging the present cabinet. He would create a new place—a Department of Public Health.

The creation of the new department under federal direction is the result of three year service Mr. Julian put in as chairman of the Health and Old Age Pension Commission of Ohio.

"Safe-guarding the public health is a federal function," says Mr. Julian. "Too long in this country have relied upon private means, such as the Rockefeller Institute, to do our research work and to point the way for progress in medicine."

'millions now living will never die'

A BIBLE LECTURE presenting incontrovertible, Scriptural evidence that we are now in the great transition period immediately preceding the "GOLDEN AGE" of prophecy.

TEMPLE THEATRE
SUNDAY, AUG. 29TH

Lecture by PASTOR W. H. SPRING, V. D. M.

"I can and do realize how extreme, fantastical and far-fetched the expression 'millions now living will never die' must seem to many. But it has been exactly the same with all other prophetic truths presented by Bible students for the past 45 years and yet notwithstanding the scoffing of the 'wise', one by one all these things have come to pass just as it has been pointed out that the Scriptures foretold. We have no desire to force our conclusions, but the man or woman who is the most incredulous and the most 'hard-headed' will stand amazed and convinced if he will examine the evidence with unprejudiced mind, providing that he really believes the Bible."—W. H. Spring.

Are You Too Prejudiced To Hear? "Come let us reason together." Condemnation Without Investigation Is Unchristian And Unamerican.

CHICAGO FANS WOULD LIKE TO SEE FRANK CHANCE AS CUBS' MANAGER

Frank Chance. We have with us again the report that Frank Chance is to head a small group of men who will purchase the Chicago Cubs and will manage the team. Big league baseball fans, especially the Chicago bugs, would be glad to see the peerless leader back in the game and are hoping that the report will amount to something in the near future. Chance is a Pacific Coast league magnate now, but has often expressed a wish to get back into the big show as a mogul and manager.

You Can Buy a Wife. You Can Buy Her Clothes and Jewels and Cars, But You Can't Buy Her Love. You'll Be Interested in Seeing Bessie Bassett, as the Eastland Theatre Tonight in "The Notorious Mrs. Sands" A Sensational Exposure of the Modern Marriage.

A sensational exposure of the modern marriage mart in New York society will be seen at the Eastland Theatre tonight in the showing of Bessie Bassett in "The Notorious Mrs. Sands". The test of a true woman's love is sacrifice. Mary Ware had two great loves—that for her mother—a filial love of tenderness and compassion—and her love for the man of her heart. To save her mother's honor, she gave up the man she loved and married a brutal money-making machine. To save the honor of the man she really loved, she sacrificed that which a woman values above all else—her reputation.

Metecore

Observations made simultaneously from stations far apart have proved that the average meteor when first seen is about eighty miles above the surface of the earth and disappears from view at thirty miles. In other words, it travels fifty miles before the friction burns it up. This friction, it is reckoned, raises it to a temperature of something like 3000,000 degrees, so that, unless of large size, it has no chance to reach our planet.

Came Home To Die

"Three years ago I came home thinking 2 or 3 weeks would be my limit to live. I had suffered for 15 years from colic attacks and severe liver and stomach trouble. I happened to see an advertisement of May's Wonderful Remedy and purchased a bottle at the drug store and after taking the first dose I felt better than I had for 15 years. I am now in the best of health—thanks to May's Wonderful Remedy." It removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at Flood & Blake, Fisher & Streich, and drugists everywhere.

Jackson "Kicked" By Ford

Eugene Jackson, 1523 Jackson avenue, suffered intense pain, Thursday afternoon when his right wrist bone was snapped in two places by the Ford machine crank, which "kicked" while he was attempting to start the car. Dr. E. S. Halderman was called and set the bones. Jackson is employed at the Peter E. Lust Auto Repair Shop, 512 Twelfth street.

Express Firm Claims Heard

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Argument on the application of the American Railway Express company for a further increase of fifteen per cent in rates to absorb the expense created by the recent wage award of the railroad labor board was heard today by Examiner Barclay of the interstate commerce commission.

In its recent decision increasing express rates twelve and one-half per cent the commission did not take into consideration the wage award estimated by the express company at approximately $40,000,000 annually. The labor board estimated the increased wages at $20,000,000.

MOONSHINE DESTROYED

While a number of officials and other spectators looked on Friday morning Sheriff E. E. Hickey destroyed several gallons of moonshine whiskey and home brew seized in raids in the vicinity in the enforcement of the prohibition laws.

The liquor, which was poured into a barrel today, was confiscated in cases which have already been finally disposed of, but the sheriff has a large quantity of the fluid still on hand which was taken in cases now pending.

Another Corry Resident Tells Interesting Story

James Carrell, Who Resides At 355 E. Pleasant St., Gladly Tells How He Is Greatly Improved In Health

"My stomach had been hurting me badly for quite a while," said Mr. Carrell. "My appetite was good enough, but everything I ate caused gas to form, and my heart would beat fast and flutter, and I would feel dull and drowsy. I would have a dull pain for hours which made me sick all over. I read about Nerv-Worth, and thought I'd try a bottle, anyway, and now I am feeling fine and have very little of the bad symptoms any more. I am taking one more to make sure, and am telling my friends about this medicine." Here is more convincing proof from a nearby town. This man found that Nerv-Worth does the work, and you will find the same if you give it a trial. In cases of stomach disorders, such as this man's, or in nervous afflictions of any kind, you will find Nerv-Worth unequalled. It neutralizes acids, stops gas, aids digestion, nerve force, sound, restful sleep, and tones and invigorates the system throughout. If your first trial bottle does not prove satisfactory, your money will be refunded. Sold on a money back guarantee by Fisher & Strick and all leading druggists everywhere.

Two Killed, 3 Injured In A Collision

CANTON, O., Aug. 27.—Two trainmen were killed and three others were seriously injured and are in Mercy hospital here as the result of a rear end railroad collision, which occurred late last night in the west yards of the Pennsylvania line near Alliance.

The dead men are W. W. Lehman, 35, conductor, Allegheny, Pa., and H. L. Cartwright, 27, loco, W. Va. flagman. Both of the bodies were brought to Canton.

Conductor Lehman and Flagman Cartwright were said to have been standing on the rear end of their train which was standing on the main track in the yards awaiting orders when it was run into by the engine of the other train which was bound for Conway.

Look Out for Rheumatism As Winter Approaches

If you have had the disease for any length of time, you have doubtless resorted to the misleading treatment of liniments and lotions, in an effort to get relief from its torturing pains. But you want more than these temporary relief. You want to be freed from the shackles of a disease that will bind you hand and foot.

So many cases of rheumatism come from a tiny disease germ that infects the blood, that physicians are beginning to realize that this source of the disease is becoming quite prevalent. Of course a disease that has its source in the blood cannot be reached by local remedies applied to the surface. One remedy that has given splendid results in the treatment of Rheumatism is S. S. S., the fine old blood purifier that has been sold by drug stores for more than fifty years. S. S. S. acts by driving out of the blood the disease germ that causes Rheumatism, thus affording real relief.

Begin taking S. S. S. today and if you will write a complete history of your case, our medical director will give you expert advice, without charge. Address Chief Medical Adviser, S. S. S. Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

Lenine And Trotzky To Fight Until Poland Has Been Utterly Defeated

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—The soviet government is firmly determined to carry the war through until Poland is utterly defeated. Lenine and Trotzky will order a general mobilization of all Russia.

The above is contained in a dispatch from Vienna to the National Gazette. The correspondent says his information is from an authentic source. It is presumed that the source is the soviet representative in Vienna.

The basis of this decision is alleged to be the realization by leading soviet statesmen that an admission of defeat at the hands of the Poles, as expressed in a peace proposed by Poland, would mean the end of the soviet regime in Russia, therefore an early end to the war cannot be risked.

Disables Conflicting

This dispatch conflicts with reports from other capitals that Moscow is ready to modify its terms—that it is willing to meet the Poles half way in order to get peace.

A second Vienna dispatch, presumably from the same source, says that Russia has 400,000 troops on the fighting line and 1,000,000 reserves at a considerable distance back. Poor transportation makes the regrouping of the armies a slow process. There are only 5,000 locomotives in all Russia, and of this number only 1,500 are available for military use.

Marine Corps Team Holds First Place

CAMP PERRY, O., Aug. 27.—The last stages of the national team match opened today with the United States marine corps team No. 1, holding first place with a total of 2297, three points above its closest opponent, the United States Infantry team.

The Philippine scouts have dropped from third to fifth place, with a total score of 2282, while the United States cavalry team moved from fourth to third place with a score of 2288. The United States navy team is in fourth place now, with a score of 2281.

"This will be the last time I will attend a national match as secretary of war," Secretary Baker said last night, at the annual meeting of the National Rifle Association, when new directors were elected.

The following directors were elected for two years: Captain L. C. Dehn, New Jersey; Major Frank Maloney, Tennessee; Major K. V. Casey, Delaware; Dr. A. T. Nocom, California; Lieutenant Colonel Morton M. Munroe, Iowa; Major Calvin B. Matthews, U. S. M. C.; Commander Carl T. Osburn, U. S. M.; Karl D. Loos, Illinois; Joseph F. Slanger, New York; Paul H. Dillman, Pennsylvania; Major Thomas C. Locke, Alabama; and Captain Arthur B. Smith, Colorado.

Woman Attacked By Bull

Miss Jessie Curtis, a prominent young woman of the Vanceburg vicinity, had a most thrilling experience and narrow escape from serious injury Thursday when she was attacked by a vicious bull.

Miss Curtis had gone to a field on her father's farm to salt the cows, as was her custom and she had proceeded but a short distance from the fence when the furious animal charged her, catching her body on his horns and tossing her several feet over the fence. Had the young woman fallen within the enclosure she undoubtedly would have met a horrible fate, but luck was on her side and she escaped from the encounter with the beast with a few painful bruises.

Cox Says He Will Continue Fight To Paralyze The Hand Of Greed That's Trying To Buy Presidency

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 27.—A promise to continue his fight to "paralyze the hand of greed, selfishness and corruption that is trying to purchase the presidency," was made by Governor Cox, Democratic presidential candidate, soon after his arrival here today to open the Connecticut campaign.

"And I am confident," he said, speaking to the Young Voters' League of this state "that as soon as the facts soak into the understanding of the people their verdict will not be one of disapproval but of stirring indignation."

On his way here from New York, Governor Cox made a rear platform address at Stamford, declaring one of the issues to be "whether we are to have a plutocracy that is purchased at a cost of several millions and behalf of a few persons."

(BULLETIN)

On account of the decision of the manufacturing plants of the city of Portsmouth to go back to Central Standard time on Monday, August 30th, I would hereby recommend that all clocks in the city be turned back to Central Standard time at 1:00 a. m., Sunday, August 29th. This will give us a uniform time in the city, which will correspond to the time upon which the railroads are now operating.

W. N. GABLEMAN, Mayor.

The Retail Committee of The Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce held a meeting at 1:30 p. m. today, to discuss the question of the merchants of Portsmouth going back to central standard time.

Word reached the committee that the manufacturing plants in Portsmouth have decided to return to central standard time on Monday, August 30th, and the meeting was called to take up and discuss the proposition and its effects on the retail trade of the city.

After a general analysis and discussion of the question, it was the unanimous opinion of the Retail Merchants' Committee that they would recommend that all merchants arrange to open their stores on Monday, August 30th, on central standard time.

Owing to the fact that the decision of the manufacturers to change time next Monday did not reach the committee until today, it will be impossible for members of the committee to see every merchant, and this means of notifying everyone was adopted as the best plan.

MR. DICKINSON, Chairman.

Hardware Employees Enjoy Real Outing

Seventy-six hardware dealers, their friends, and families enjoyed an afternoon of outdoor frolics Thursday, when they were royally entertained at the David Stahler farm on the West Side, five miles below the city.

The ball game between the men of the various firms was one of the many diversions of the afternoon. Wading and bathing in the Ohio river attracted the women and children.

At the fall of evening the large crowd had supper on the lawn, near the river where they watched the sun set on the Ohio.

James H. Carson of Dayton, Secretary of the Ohio Hardware Dealers Association was the guest of honor at the outing.

Ashland Car Hits Pole; Two Injured

Mr. and Mrs. Nich Alexious, of Ashland, Ky., came a long way to receive medical attention from Dr. Tun- is Nussmaker, of Ninth street Thursday and figured in an exciting accident here.

Mrs. Alexious' son has been afflicted with a hip disease for some time, and the family motored here Thursday to consult the physician.

When they were driving east on Gallia avenue, at Young street, a motorcycle came down over the viaduct and crowded the Alexious machine up over the curb and into a telephone pole, according to Alexious. Rather than collide with the motorcycle he chose to climb the pole.

When the Chevrolet stopped, and Alexious took an inventory, he found the right front wheel badly bent, the windshield was shattered and his wife had suffered multiple bruises about the face and body, caused by the flying glass. Mrs. Alexious also suffered some broken teeth. Mr. Alexious was slightly bruised. The family proceeded to Dr. Nussmaker's office, where their bruises were dressed. The machine was temporarily repaired at a local garage, and the Alexious family returned home Friday.

Mr. Alexious said he secured the license number of the motorcycle which did not stop.

Fire Chief Leedom's Auto Catches Fire

While Fire Chief Leedom was in the Hilltop fire department Thursday afternoon his machine suddenly flared up.

Flames danced all around it. A fireman quickly realized the situation, grabbed a fire extinguisher and put out the flames before the car was damaged to any extent.

A short circuit in the electrical equipment of the machine caused the trouble Chief Leedom learned after making an investigation.

"It is pretty tough when my own car catches fire," Chief Leedom said Friday.

Harding Praises Esch-Cummins Act; Says Railroad Workers Will Soon See Its Full Worth

GALLIA, O., Aug. 27.—Unqualified approval of the Cummins-Esch railway reorganization act was voiced by Senator Harding today in a speech here to a group of railway employees.

Saying he was aware that some of the employees were dissatisfied with the measure, the Republican nominee prophesied that in the near future the workers would realize that it was "the greatest forward step in all the history of railway legislation."

Senator Harding did not mention directly the anti-strike provision that was in the railway bill as it passed the senate, but he asserted that he stood for a policy that would make "continuity of service a government guaranty," and said he also wanted to see railway men given the best of treatment by the government and by the American people.

Speaking at a picnic and athletic tournament of employees of the Erie railway, the nominee began his speech by an eulogy to the benefits of physical "play."

"I am making no appeal in this campaign that I will not be willing to have tested by the standards that good competitive sport has set up in all ages and among all fair men. These are the standards of a good citizenship which is willing to play the game. We have had too much encouragement from Washington given to the man who wanted to cut second base, or get something for nothing.

"Let me tell you the things which are in my heart about railway employment. No matter what anyone tells you, no matter what your own erroneous impressions are, no thoughtful man in business or private life, no earnest man in public life is without a deep concern for the good fortunes of every railway worker, in the shop, in the yards or office, on the track or on the trains; every man in the service. We may differ about the way to better conditions and the assurances of soul and contentment in your work, but we are agreed about the ends at which we aim.

"I believe railway workers ought to have the best conditions and be as abundantly compensated as any wage earners in our modern activities. I am not thinking of the rail workers alone. I am thinking of the American public."

The ADVENTURES OF DETECTIVE BARNEY

Copyright, 1920, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

By HARVEY J. O'HIGGINS

THE KIDNAPPERS

BARNEY COOK entered the operatives' room of the Babbling Bureau twenty minutes late, and one of the detectives, at a typewriter desk, said: "The Chief wants to see you."

His face was ominous. Barney looked up guiltily at the clock. He had been given a holiday on the previous day and told to "rest up" after his exploit in the Catkills. He had taken his rest on the streets, and at the moving picture shows. At night he had gone to a vaudeville theater with two of his old gang. It had "lacked" in them that he was a detective—a fact which should have been kept a professional secret. He had been posing and strutting in their eyes all after midnight. And he had overslept.

He had always been able to invent explanations and excuses that would pass muster in the schoolroom; and he had had a boy's contempt for the gullibility of his elders; but Babbling had given him more respect for adult perspicacity. He could never tell how much Babbling knew; and he found it impossible to life with assurance among the covered pitfalls of Babbling's inquiring stieries.

Of course, he could say that his mother had told Mrs. Jordan, next door, that he was working in the Babbling Bureau; and Mrs. Jordan had told her son "Dummy"; and Dummy had told everybody. And he had gone to the vaudeville show to get away from the curiosity of the neighborhood. And he was late getting down to the office because a bunch of fellows had been laying for him outside, and he had hung around, inside, waiting for them to go away, and—Babbling was busy at his desk. He asked, unexpectedly: "Who was that you were talking with—on the corner—as I came in?"

It had been "Dummy" Jordan. Barney had to admit as much.

"He's deaf and dumb, is he?" Barney hesitated. His story had cast Dummy Jordan for the part of village gossip. "Yes, 'n' he confessed reluctantly.

Babbling looked over his spectacles at him. "You can talk—on your fingers—pretty fluently?"

"Yes, sir." Babbling said, into an office telephone: "Bring me the file on the Dart gang." He pressed a call button to summon his office manager. He remarked, aside to Barney: "I don't know what you're trying to conceal. Is it anything important?"

"No, sir," the inebriated Barney answered.

"All right. Save yourself the trouble of looking so innocent, then, Sit down." He greeted the reverend gray hairs of his office manager with "Arch, I've got an idea for that Merriam disappearance. The woman who kept the lodging house at number 125 was a Mrs. Andrews, wasn't she?"

"That," Archibald said, "I have forgotten."

"Well, look it up. And have Billy type her a letter on our Wallbridge Chicago letter-head, introducing me as Adam Cook. Something like this: 'Dear Madam: I am giving this letter to an old friend, Mr. Adam Cook, who expects to be in New York for some months on business and wishes to get comfortable, private rooms for self and son. Anything that you can do for him will be much appreciated by Yours truly—' and have him sign it Charles J. Wallbridge. Date it back about ten days. And when he's typing it, have him put a 5 on top of the 5 in 125. Do you understand?"

"Perfectly."

"Good. What are we using room 125 for?"

"I think it's disgraced." "Clear it out and fix it up for me as Adam Cook. I'll promote that tunneling machine again. Get the model in there, and the dice prints, and put Clara in charge. I'll move in this afternoon, and I expect they'll start to check me up right away. We don't want any holes in our cover."

"I'll attend to it."

"And have the name painted on the door."

A clerk had entered with a file of typewritten reports in a loose-leaf binder. Babbling had taken it while he was still talking to Archibald; and he turned over the papers rapidly, as he talked. "That's right," he said. "She's a Mrs. Josiah Andrews at number 125. Go ahead."

Archibald went out softly, after the clerk, and Barney, having caught something that concerned the name of Cook in these preparations for a plant, waited on the edge of his chair in guilty suspense. Babbling continued to read.

"Well, Barney," he said, still reading, "you'd better get it off your mind. What?"

"Whatever it is that's bothering you,"

I haven't time to put you through the third degree. Come on. Give it up."

Barney grinned sheepishly. "Dummy knows I'm a— He knows I'm working here."

"And all the rest of your friends, eh?"

"Yes, 'n'— "Huh! You'll meet that on the street some day, when you least expect it. I have a job for you that I don't want any tumbler on. I'm going to plant you as a deaf mute. With this Dart gang. You'll have to be prepared with a trunk and a hand-bag full of good clothes. Corcoran'll go with you to see that you get them right. I'll give him instructions. He'll take you—and your baggage—to rooms that I'll engage for us at the Hotel Haarlem. I'll pick you up there, as soon as you're fixed, and explain matters to you as we go along." He took his office telephone. "Get Corcoran in here right away." As he returned to his study of the Dart file, he said to Barney: "You can practice being deaf and dumb till he comes."

Barney grinned at this pleasantness as cheerfully as a dog wags its tail when the voice of authority turns from reproof to forgiveness.

Corcoran arrived in due course, silent, non-committal with his hat on the back of his head, looking like a newspaper man, on the sporting page. When he had received his instructions, he said "Come on, kid," slightly, and he let Barney trot along behind him to the elevator. "Going to put you out as a dummy, eh?" He pressed the signal button. "I suppose you'll be able to get away with that, if you keep your mouth shut."

His manner was contemptuous. Barney had not forgotten their first experience together and Corcoran's disgust at "this kid business" when he had stolen Cooper's cipher code.

He touched the detective's elbow, frowned, flickered eloquently with his hands, pointed at Corcoran, spelled out an impatient reply, and ended with his eyebrows up again.

Corcoran said: "What the hell's the matter with you?"

Barney pointed to his mouth and to his ears, shook his head and launched into another gravely impudent communication.

Corcoran flushed and swore at him. Barney grinned. In the elevator cage, he spelled out: "I've got your goat."

And he had. By the time they arrived at the Hotel Haarlem—with an auto full of purchases for Barney's new role—Corcoran was in a speechless rage, and Barney, still constantly deaf and dumb, was enjoying himself like a young imp.

"G—," Corcoran said, through his teeth, "I hope this Dart gang cuts your throat. They'll do it, too, if they get half a chance."

It was late in the afternoon when Adam Cook, accompanied by his afflicted son, descended from a taxicab in front of number 125, rang the bell, and asked to see the mistress of the house. A discouraged-looking maid ushered them grudgingly into the parlor and left them there—in a room that apparently had been outfitted second-hand from all the discarded tops and plushes of all the defunct boarding houses of the last generation.

Barney looked around him and was disappointed. Corcoran's prediction that the Dart gang would cut his throat if they got "half a chance" had given him a promise of excitement; and Babbling had intimated the promise with a further warning in the taxicab: "These people," he had said, "are professional criminals. You can't get past them with any mistakes, mind you. They're dangerous. If they suspect you're after them, they're deadly. They'll kill to get free. You'll have to watch out." Consequently, Barney had entered the room with the feeling that he was about to penetrate a bandit's lair.

Babbling pointed Barney to a chair and waited, standing. At the sound of a footstep in the hall, he faced the door—a mild-mannered, mid-eyed widow, accustomed to courtesy and evidently able to buy it.

The mistress of the house proved to be one of those lean and angular women who dress and pipe-clay themselves to a military stiffness, with a high collar, a stiff felt hair, talcum powder, light lacing and hand padding. Her features were large, but her eyes, which were black and beady, no one could doubt her evident respectability.

She acknowledged Babbling's greeting as inhospitably as a hired housekeeper, and he explained that he was Adam Cook, from Chicago, now living at the Hotel Haarlem, but looking for rooms for himself and his young son, in some respectable house in which he could leave the boy safely while he was away at his office. "I have a letter of introduction to you, m'am," he said; and he laid down his hat, got out his glasses, put them on, took them off to polish them, put them on again, and began to search through his many pockets—and the many papers in them—for the letter.

Meanwhile he did not interrupt his explanations. His son, he confided, was deaf and dumb, and they had come to New York to have him taught lip-reading at the Deaf and Dumb Institute. He had transferred his business from Chicago and opened offices in the Cranmer building, but he had found it impossible to leave the boy alone in a hotel, even though he had engaged a young woman from the Institute to come to their rooms every morning to give him instruction in lip reading. The boy, to tell the truth, was backward. Of course. Naturally.

Barney looked it. He was regarding the poses of Lincoln's cabinet in an old steel engraving over the piano with a dull endurance.

Still in pursuit of the letter, Babbling had taken out his pocketbook, and in searching through it he spilled out a number of hundred dollar bills on the floor. She instantly bent at sight of them, and helped him pick them up. In spite of his polite remonstrances. He was very fussy, annoyed by his own clumsiness, and he crammed the bills into his trousers pocket with no appearance of respect for their value.

She asked: "Won't you sit down, Mr. Cook? You say you have a letter of introduction to me?"

"I have, m'am," he said, "if I can find it."

And his wife live here with me, and we rent our top floor to some young men—business men—who are friends of my son's. But—

Babbling was not listening. He looked around him as if he were rather lost. "Across there— But that's the north side, isn't it? And I particularly wanted a back room that would be sunny." He appealed to her in a manner of bewildered helplessness.

"Mr. Cook—" She hesitated—"I don't know who the gentleman is who has referred you to that house, but I do know."

He broke in, uneasily: "Wallbridge? He's a stock broker, m'am. I don't know him very well, except in a business way."

She nodded several times, compressing her lips.

"Do you mean—" he asked, alarmed. "Your son," she said, "would need to be not only deaf but blind?"

They found him observing them with a mute and glassy stare. They went on with their palaver. Barney began to find it tedious.

Mrs. Dart was taking a charitable interest in their housing problem, and Babbling's vague and rambling impracticality encouraged her to advise him. He was a stranger to New York. He did not know whether it would be possible to get two large rooms, with bath, in a private family, no matter what one paid for them. He would like to get rooms in this quarter, because it was so convenient in the Institute. He liked these old-fashioned houses; they were so different from a hotel.

Not only did Babbling "work up" the deaf and dumb alphabet. He coached Barney on the details of their life in Chicago, the death of his mother there, and the imaginary incidents of his kidnapping, some years before. He took all the New York labels from his own clothes and from Barney's. He had Corcoran buy some well-thumbed second-hand picture books, and he wrote in them: "To Barney, from his affectionate Papa." He filled his pockets with fraudulent letters addressed to Adam Cook about his tunneling machine; and he saw that there was nothing suspicious in Barney's possession.

"Now," he said, on their way to the house, "don't ever sit with your back to a door. Don't go to sleep until you're sure that your window and your door are both locked. On the look-out all the time to see that they don't get a chance to startle you into betraying yourself. Understand?"

"They may get some one in to try to pump you. If they do, be as stupid as you can. You're not supposed to be more than half-witted anyway."

"Dodge any one you know on the streets. Don't speak to anybody, anywhere. Not even to me. No matter what happens, don't make any outcry. If we get into a tight place, the fact that you're deaf and dumb is all that will save you from serious trouble. Our boys will be watching the house. And watching you on the streets. And if anything happens, let it happen—and keep quiet—and wait—and we'll get to you."

"What's going to happen?" Barney asked, thrilled.

"Probably nothing at all," Babbling said. "We're fishing—with you for bait. They may not rise to you. If they started back to the hotel, he presumes a thoughtful silence. "I don't know whether we can get away with it or not," he said, at last. "She plays a great game."

"What do I have to do next?" Barney asked, expectantly.

"Nothing but keep your mouth shut," he replied. "If there's anything going to be done, she'll do it. Give me the deaf and dumb alphabet. I'll have to work that up. We've got to be thorough on this job, or we'll find ourselves in a hole."

five thousand dollars; and since that time another attempt had been made to steal him; and, in fact, they had moved from Chicago because of this second attempt; and Babbling had not felt it safe to leave Barney in a hotel in New York; and that was the real reason why they had sought rooms in a private residence.

Babbling blurted it all out in a worded rush, once he had begun; and Mrs. Dart, hearing him sympathetically, she even volunteered to keep an eye on Barney in the afternoon, to make sure that he did not slip out while no one was watching him. Babbling was deeply indebted to her. It relieved his mind more than he could say.

When she had left the room he spelled out to Barney on his fingers: "Watch yourself."

And Barney watched, as eager as a young hound. He was leading a life of elegant idleness, sleeping late, eating unthinkingly, wearing good clothes and doing no work whatever; and by contrast with his days as a telegraph boy, he was a sea of poverty who had fallen to millions. Consequently, he was full of a restless vitality that remained bottled up in him like an effervescence.

One afternoon Mrs. Dart came in with a workman, carrying a table to replace the card table which she wished to remove. Babbling was sitting by the window, apparently absorbed in a picture book; and he watched them with an interest that was not assumed. Any intrusion was welcome.

The workman scrutinized him curiously. "Looks as if he could kick," he said to the table. And Mrs. Dart answered, hurriedly: "Sh! He can read your lips."

She nodded and smiled to Barney, who watched her blankly. As they went out, taking the card table, he heard the man mutter something about "blind-fold."

And he sat staring at the closed door as if he were indeed a dummy. He had been so intent upon his own deceptions and Babbling's—that he had neither seen nor suspected the deceptions of his opponents. He had accepted Mrs. Dart as a mildly-scheming bore who had been tricked into admitting them to her house, and he had despised her. "Sh! He can read your lips!" followed by her affected smile to him as she went out—had goose-fleshed him, less with fear of her than with a pang at his own stupidity. What were they up to? How had he failed to see any signs of it before? How far had they gone in it?

At four o'clock the doorbell rang, and Barney put his ear to the hall-door, alertly. He heard the maid go to answer the bell. In a moment he heard her returning down the hall, followed by a heavier footstep. He dashed back to his seat by the window in time to be busy with a picture book when she knocked. He disregarded the knock, of course. She put her head in. "That's him," she said.

Barney looked up. A young man with a wrinkled mouth smiled falsely at him, shifted his flat-brimmed derby from his right hand to his left, took an envelope from the pocket of his natty blue serge, and crossed the room to deliver it.

The letter was a typewritten note that read: "My dear Boy: I am to have dinner with a friend, uptown. I am sending an auto for you. Come with the driver." It was signed "Your affectionate Papa," in the handwriting of Babbling's inscription in his picture books.

Barney guessed that it was a forgery. He understood that he was being kidnapped by "a bunch of crooks." He knew, from the sample before him, that the men might be murderous. Yet the situation, for the instant, seemed almost amusing to him, and the men nearly ridiculous. Conceal the emotions of a street mongrel when it sees itself stolen, with infinite precautions, by a thief who expects to get a reward for returning it.

He put the letter in his pocket and went to his bedroom for his hat. He noticed himself in his glass—rather pale—and he smiled at his reflection reassuringly. Of course, Babbling had planned for all this. He had expected them to kidnap him. They would take him to some secret den, and he would overtake everything, they said, and then, when he had been rescued, his testimony would convict them of all the crimes that had ever been pictured in the Sunday supplements.

He was returned to the realities by the sight of the young crook who went to him. "The fellow was obviously nervous and in a hurry to get away; his anxiety put Barney more at ease, and he looked around the room as if he were in search of something. His kidnapper stood at the hall door, crying him impatiently. Barney went back to his bedroom.

The crook followed to the bedroom door and beckoned to Barney to come along; and Barney, of course, stopped to ask, on his fingers, "What?" The other choked down his impatience and tried to smile reassuringly. Barney eased at that smile like a cradled infant who sees teeth for the first time. He was treating the process of his performance with Corcoran and enjoying an artistic triumph.

It took nearly five minutes to get him to the street entrance, and there his impatient abductor went ahead, down the steps, to open the door of a ramshackle taxicab that was waiting for them, with his motor thumping.

Barney saw Corcoran far down the street. He slipped back into the house again to give the detective time to reach them, and he arrived in the privacy of his room, enjoying himself. At the thought that the men might get frightened and so of without him, he hurried out again, taking a picture book as if he had returned for that.

Corcoran had disappeared. The street was empty.

The man at the door of the taxicab smiled and wagged a hooked finger at him. And Barney stood on the steps slightly reluctant, his back under his arm, paralyzed by the thought that Corcoran had deserted him—to be recovered.

"Go easy, Gus," his kidnapper warned the driver. "We don't want any argument with the traffic squad." They slowed at the corner, waiting for an opening in the stream of traffic that flowed north. Barney saw that traffic with large dumb eyes from which all intelligence had withdrawn. Inward, to the more vivid pictures of a fairy that was fearful with delight. Some one came out from the curb, stopped on the running-board and opened the cab door.

It was Corcoran. Another operative clambered in beside the driver.

"How do, Tip?" Corcoran greeted Barney's captor. "They want to see you down at the office." The driver had jammed on the brakes. "Yuh started at the detective. 'What'd yuh want?'"

And Barney saw himself checked in the middle of adventure by this premature intrusion of help. "Gee!" he said to himself. "This big boob! Why couldn't he leave us alone for a minute?"

"They want to see you?" Corcoran said, "about the same old trouble. I've been looking for you all day."

"Well, I'm busy."

"Won't take you a second. Run along down in the machine. I'll go with you."

"Now look-a-here, Cook," he protested plaintively, "you've been over me so often on that damn of frame up of yours—I don't know a thing about the business, an' I can tell you that, here, without waitin' gasoline."

Tough Luck

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Georges Carpentier, the European heavyweight champion, barely missed participation in a public rough-and-tumble fight at Beauville a few days ago when challenged by a former aviator in the French army.

The pugilist accidentally elbowed the former aviator in a spout around one of the gaming tables at the Casino.

The aviator thereupon vigorously denounced Carpentier. He accused the champion of spending all his time in Paris during the war and with never having been at the front, and challenged Carpentier to fight on the spot.

During the hubbub Carpentier slipped away. The fighter, together with his manager, will leave France, September 4, on the steamer La Route for the United States.

Terry Developing Into Star

Whenever Barney Dreyfuss sees the day's box scores he probably feels like kicking himself around his office for a minute or two. For Terry's name in the Cubs' box score every day must stick out like a railroad signal to Barney.

Last spring Dreyfuss had both Zeb Terry and Buster Cato on his club roster to fight it out for the short-stopping job. Terry felt that he was worth more than Barney had promised to pay him. The Pirate leader and Zeb couldn't agree on terms, so when the Cubs agreed to pay the young man what he asked Dreyfuss let him go. Cato has been doing a good job of short-stopping for the Pirates, but his work doesn't stand out as does that of Terry. This bird has been covering short and second base in brilliant style for Mitchell, and has been batting around .300. It is said that other National League clubs had a chance to grab Zeb but failed to see him. Looks like Zeb and Mord Wrigley have cause to laugh up their sleeves.

E. O. Hoppe, the famous English photographer, started his career in the United States he stated that English women are prettier than American women. New York newspapers have since been full of pictures of American women who it is alleged, are prettier than England's fairest. One of the English women, who, according to Mr. Hoppe, are prettier than anything to be seen in the U. S., is Viscountess Masserene. Compare her picture with that of Mrs. Bryce Wing of New York. No less an authority than the Grand Duke Michaelovitch, cousin of the former czar of Russia, has declared Mrs. Wing to be the most beautiful woman in the world.

Reds Must Pin Faith On Ruether And Luque

Here is what Puelon says about the Reds' pennant chances: "On the recovery and future fortunes of two lame-armed pitchers, the Reds rest all their hopes, all their chances for the flag. If Luque and Ruether can come back strong and husky, and pitch in their regular turn the rest of the campaign, there should be little cause to worry. If they can't, the balance of the staff seems up against it. Elder seems all the good at last. Fisher turns in a nice game now and then. It is good about three times out of five. Napier turned in a winner on his first start, but is hardly likely to be counted as a regular, taking turn and turn. It's all up to Ruether and Luque. Ruether has been of little use for a month.

St. Louis Players Discuss Mays' Case

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—Both the St. Louis and Boston clubs of the American league have received the communication from Cleveland players regarding their feeling toward Carl Mays, the New York pitcher. The members of the St. Louis team discussed the matter at a meeting, but whether they took any action, could not be learned.

Harry Hooper, captain of the Red Sox, to whom the communication in the Boston club was addressed, said the local players might meet to consider it after the game today. The terms of the communication were not disclosed, Hooper and other players saying they felt that if made public it should be by the Cleveland club.

BATTERS LIKELY TO WEAR HEADGEAR FOR PROTECTION

Proposed headgear for batters.

Headgear for the protection of baseball players at the bat is being considered by club owners and players as a result of the accident which resulted in the death of Ray Chapman from a pitched ball. It will not be surprising if the batters of the future stand at the plate with a guard or covering on that side of the head nearest the pitcher, as shown in the above photo.

A MATTER OF PRETENSE

CONSIDERABLE hullabaloo was raised in the Republican party, at Cincinnati, during the last primary, over the question of being bossed from New York.

Rud Hynicka, heir apparent to George B. Cox, having ascended to the dictatorship of the organization and acquired a fortune through his political position, has, to all intents and purposes, become a resident of New York, though he professes to retain his voting home in Cincinnati, and this was the basis of opposition in part to a local take he named. A chap, who had made an excellent record in overseas service was brought out to "break the slate" in its most vital part, the county commissionerships. Much din marked his candidacy and the yelping against "the foreign boss" was fast and furious, the afternoon party organ "joining mightiest in the tumult."

The service man made a rather creditable showing, but was rather badly beaten at that.

Now comes the sequel. The organ hastes to make peace with the organization and enthusiastically calls upon all good men to rally to the support of the party, while the erstwhile insurgent candidate hurries to Hynicka to ask forgiveness and he accepted as an humble toiler in the ranks.

Wherefore with such examples of groveling insincerity as this expect the people to be anything else but boss ridden and the fitness of candidates cut but scant figure in elections? If the Hynicka system is bad for the party it is certainly worse for the public. The triumph of a partisan ticket is never more consequent than the welfare of the whole community. It is not in common reason that the masses of the party will except the sincerity of any attack on boss rule, when the attackers believe their own sincerity by hastily assuming his yoke as soon as he wins. Evil is never cured by striking hands with it an endeavor to forge his fetters stronger than ever.

This latter it does surely because when its scepter is accepted by those who protested it the voter can come to no other conclusion that it was right and will have no faith in future crusades.

THE SPECTRE VANISHES

PERHAPS, in all the stupendous things that have happened in world affairs, within the past six years, nothing was so amazing in the vast sweep it suddenly took, as the driving back of the Russians from Warsaw.

It seemed impossible to stop the mighty sweep with which the Bolsheviks were moving forward and the practical elimination of Poland, fraught with such portentous consequence to all the nations, seemed inevitable.

All at once, however, the situation changes and the unconquerable hosts are seen a defeated and utterly demoralized rabble swarming, throwing down their arms and surrendering or else fleeing as fast as their legs will carry them back from whence they came.

Thus are the fortunes of nations, aye, of the whole world changed. For the situation, precipitated by the war between Poland and Russia, were promoting conditions that gravely threatened rupture between the two nations that must be esteemed as the bulwark of European welfare, and so of the world, France and Great Britain.

To France, still courageous and resolute, even after the terrible four year ordeal, which she so recently passed through, must be given all the credit of saving the situation. She was, from the first moment the Bolsheviks became threatening, in favor of the Triple Alliance sending military assistance to Poland, but England, directed by Lloyd George, who does not seem to be as brave in peace as he is in war, hesitated and held back, and Italy, as is her game, played second fiddle to England. In this dilemma, France did all she could at the moment, sent several of her best generals and a regiment of her experienced officers to Poland to organize and manœuvre her arms and command her troops. It is, no doubt, owing to this aid and direction, that Poland was able to gather her shattered forces together, give them new strength and hope and press them on to victory.

So for this much is the world indebted to France, who in this may have served the world quite as signally as the greater part of the worlds served her.

One of the saving elements consists of the faith every man has in his ability to select the right candidate for his vote.

Some persons seem to have the idea that one cannot be in sympathy with Ireland unless he is swinging a shillelagh.

In these days of so much work to do there is really not much excuse for there being so many innocent bystanders.

A CHECK IS DESIRABLE

THE excess of exporters from this country to foreign parts showed something of a decrease, as compared with the general run for a considerable period back.

This is not to be taken as an unfavorable symptom, rather as a healthy one. The American trade balance for the past six years has been abnormal. We have been supplying the world with the bulk of its consumption and not getting back from it exchange commodities. Every other nation, in a way, was becoming too large an extent our debtor. This unwholesome state is being accentuated by enormous sums of gold, sent over to preserve the integrity of obligations and trade balances.

Of course, the position of premier creditor nation is advantageous, but there is such a thing as becoming too pre-eminent therein, Europe can not go on forever heaping up her indebtedness to America. In the end this would mean ruin to her and disaster to us. The economically sound basis of the nations towards each other rests upon a due proportion of barter and exchange, in other words the mutual insurance of the commerce of the one to the commerce of the other. None can afford to import everything and export nothing.

One almost envies the man who can go fishing and forget all about politics and the troubles of Europe.

Some profiteers are so sensitive that they would object to joining an association of burglars.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

ABSENCE SEEMS TO MAKE LINDESEY'S HEART GROW FOND

August 20—No news from Jack, not since the last scraggy letter, and there was a mail in today. I think he is forgetting all about me in his absence. Jeffery is due to arrive tomorrow; maybe there will be some love letters for me on his box.

Aunt Cecilia is hardly capable today at all, she's so fussed and excited. Glowing like an early June rose, and her eyes—goodness, they are like pansy-velvet from the warehouse of the gods!

She has been trying to make up her mind all morning as to which of her eight new costumes to wear to meet Jeffery in. And at last we have both decided on a lovely soft, yellow corded silk, which is most becoming. Mr. J. but she is excited. She says there's no telling what may happen within the next few weeks, and I feel that very much myself. I just know that nifty feels the way I do about long engagements, and she, sensible creature, will very likely up and marry Jeffery, just as soon as the law will allow. I admire her for that.

We are to go on to Paris the beginning of next week—that will be grand, and especially having Jeffery with us. A man does lively things up so.

Dorothy writes me of her great happiness; so does Jennifer; so does old Laura; and now here's Arline and soon—Auntie. Any wonder I want to write them the same? Why, I've certainly got the marriage fever, and badly. I wouldn't be an old maid—not for the biggest and brightest career that the Hall of Fame had to offer me as an inducement to keep single, and my individuality inviolate! No me. What a foolish little girl I have been, worrying about problems that never crop up in my path at all. Maybe that's why the reaction has set in so heavily. Maybe that's why I'm so anxious to go home and see my boy, and love him, and get married so that we can be all on our very own selves. Like the Lord intended us to be.

Mother tells me that I am coming to be a sensible girl in some ways. That makes me sort of mad, and yet I know that it's only because she knows just why I am so short tempered and fretful—and why she noticed my red eyes the other afternoon, after I had been having a fussy good cry. She knows that I am longing for my Jack.

I wish I could order that magic carpet that I used to read about in "The Arabian Nights," and be suddenly whisked through the air on it over to America and dropped at the feet of the man I love.

Best I could do in these modern times would be to charter an airplane. Jimmy, a dear little boy of the streets I met a week ago, and have since seen every day, told me that he would love to come to America and live with me; and between you and me, little Jack, I'm going to manage that for him. "It feel badly to leave him here to his fate, especially after knowing the full sweetness of his nature. No, I intend to get him away from his present environments, and help him to make a fine man of himself. It may not be till after our honeymoon, and it may, for dad has always secretly longed for a boy round the house, and Jimmy's just the sort he'd fall for hard."

Possibilities Are No More. It used to be considered highly humorous in the old home village to say of some bow-legged man that he could not stop a pig in an alley. But nowadays bow-legged men so vastly outnumber swine that it is impossible to try the experiment in more than a comparatively few cases.

BILLY WHISKER

ALL this time there was great excitement at the railroad station. Mr. Brown had left word that his goat was to be held until the next night's train to Havre, as he intended to spend a day in Paris, but the express department had no goat to hold, so the matter was reported to the police department and within a few moments all the gendarmes of Paris were looking for a mischievous white goat with freshly shined spots on his stony coat.

One of these gendarmes, soon after he had received his instructions, found Billy and a big stray Tom cat eying each other with every intention of immediate war. Billy had never spoken in a cat before and so when he saw this strange animal on the street he walked straight up to it and said "Brah!" He intended to mean something like our "Good evening." It's pleasant weather, isn't it? But Billy's voice at best was not a very good one and his long horns looked threatening so the big cat arched his back and bristled his hair and stuck his tail straight up. Billy did not know much about cats, but he could easily see that this one meant fight, so he shook his head angrily. They were standing in front of one of the pleasant Paris sidewalk cafes and a great many ladies and gentlemen were seated at little round tables under the broad awning.

Just as the gendarme recognized Billy by his shined coat, the cat let out an ear splitting "meow!" and jumping up scratched Billy's face with his sharp claws on both his forefeet; then it sprang up on one of the empty tables and down on the other side, Billy, smarting with pain, jumped after him, upsetting the chairs on the other side with a crash. The express department had offered a good reward to whoever should find Billy, so the gendarme took after the goat, overturning some more chairs. The cat darted here and there and everywhere among the little round tables and Billy right after him. The cat ran under a table at which were sitting two gentlemen and two ladies, and Billy,

New-York - Day - By - Day

BY O. O. MONTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. — Thoughts while strolling around New York: A hospital for birds. Turkish and Russian baths, confectionery schools, medical institutes, table d'hotes and a bar-becue menu. Wonder how a bar-becue menu makes out these days? One of the gas house districts on Cherry Hill. Dirty faced children. Italians in red flannels. The smell of garlic. And across the river the cool, purple majestic hills.

Old women picking up chips from the gutter. The road of hosts against cobble stones. Never saw a lumber yard in this town. A musty old book shop. All the old volumes for a few pennies. And over of us would trade five client Greenville kidneys for one slumbering Charles Lamb.

Taxi-bus loaded with nervous looking passengers and strange looking trunks. Going to the pier. Sanka is coming from the funnels. An artist painting squalor from his perch on a fire escape. There's a cross town car bulging with humanity. Always room for one more. So were you.

Back on Broadway. No one ever seems to read those "For Hire" looking liver. The stummock is devoted to the bowers, of which there are five, a, e, i, o, u, and sometimes W and Y.

Professional Appreciation. First Actress (behind the scenes)—"Did you hear the way the public wept during my death scene?"

Second Actress—"Yes; it must have been because they realized that it was only acted."—E. Williams (Christianity).

Seamy Equipment. "Shakespeare had no scenery worth mentioning."

"And he had no press-agent, either," said Mr. Barnardine Harnes. "Otherwise there would have been no finger-pointing about as to who wrote the plays."—Washington Star.

Absent-Minded. The champion absent-minded man called upon his friend, a football club physician, and after a chat of a couple of hours the doctor saw him to the door, and bade him good-night, saying: "Come again. Climb still going on all right, I suppose?"

"Good! gracious!" exclaimed the absent-minded beggar, "that reminds me of my errand. Our gatekeeper is in a fit!"

Knew the Road. "Doesn't that annoy you?" asked the visitor, as Mr. Cobles carefully turned his flier to one side of the road and let a big car whiz past him in a cloud of dust.

"Nope, it don't bother me none to speak of," answered Mr. Cobles, with a chuckle. "There's a rascable bridge down the road a piece. I know all about it and he's liable to be caught mighty small when we get to him."

Obliging Nurse. "That new nurse maid of Mrs. Styles seems a very obliging girl. She's the lady in the satin jumper."

"What makes you think so?" asked her friend in the purple gingham.

"Well, yesterday morning I saw her out with Mrs. Styles' baby in the afternoon with Mrs. Styles' dog and in the evening with Mrs. Styles' husband."

What He Left Him. "A humorist died the other day. 'Did he leave an estate?'"

"Only one joke, which he bequeathed to his son."

"Not much of an inheritance."

"But he explained in his will that if the joke were expended into a musical comedy, made the theme of a Chautauque lecture and worked over from time to time and sold to the magazines, it would provide his heir with a comfortable income."

Safety First. A beautiful curate found the young ladies in the parish too helpful. At last it became so embarrassing that he left.

Not long afterward he met the curate who had succeeded him.

"Well," he asked, "how did you get on with the ladies?"

"Oh, very well indeed," said the other. "There is safety in numbers, you know."

"Indeed!" said the ex-curate. "I only found it in Exodus."

WHO'S WHO

In The Days News

W. L. GEORGE.

Another famous English writer, Mr. W. L. George, has come to the United States to look us over. He arrived in New York a few days ago for a six month's tour.

Mr. George, in at least one respect, is unusual among present-day English writers. That is, in the variety of occupations that he has followed.

"I have been trained as an analytical chemist, engineer, soldier and business man," he said. "Finally, I took up journalism in 1907, and since then have written about every thing from the 'art of the troubadour' to the 'finance of railways.'"

Mr. George is particularly interested in family and kindred subjects, marriage and divorce problems and sex matters. I suppose I may be credited with what some people call "advanced ideas."

This versatile Englishman was born in Paris in 1882. He was educated in France and in Germany, and served in the French army during the World War.

Among Mr. George's novels are: "A Red House," published in 1911; "The City of Light," 1912; "Israel Kalksch," 1913; "The Making of an Englishman," 1914; "The Second Wedding," 1915; and "Blind Alley," 1916.

Mr. George's latest work is "The Art of the Troubadour," which is a study in the life of a troubadour in the thirteenth century.

Mr. George's work has been translated into many languages, and he has won many honors and awards.

Mr. George's tour of the United States will include visits to New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Washington.

COX BACKS CHARGES OF G. O. P. SLUSH FUND WITH OFFICIAL DATA

FIGURES TAKEN FROM OFFICIAL G. O. P. BULLETIN

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 27.—Information to support his charges that a Republican slush fund existed for $15,000,000 was being raised "in a conspiracy to buy the presidency," was presented by Gov. Cox, Democratic presidential nominee, in addressing a public meeting here tonight.

Governor Cox's data consisted almost entirely of matter taken from the "Official Bulletin" of Fred W. Upham of Chicago, treasurer of the Republican National committee, but his chief exhibit was a typewritten list purporting to show Republican campaign quotas imposed on 51 principal cities in 27 states and aggregating $11,115,000.

Local Subscribers Kept Secret

Names of local subscribers, Gov. Cox said, were ordered kept secret. These quotas, given as $2,000,000 for New York City, $150,000 for Chicago, $300,000 for Philadelphia, and ranging down to $25,000 for smaller cities like Albany, N. Y., and Atlanta, Ga., were said by Gov. Cox to have been announced about the middle of July.

Harding Acquainted With Facts

That Senator Harding "was acquainted with the details" of the quota plan and that it was also approved by Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee and Treasurer Upham, was charged by the Democratic candidate.

From subsequent issues of the "Official Bulletin" Gov. Cox quoted reports from Republican workers throughout the country reporting "ring over the top" and in excess of the alleged quotas.

Announcement of the $5,145,000 metropolitan quota, Gov. Cox said, was made by Harry M. Blair, assistant to Treasurer Upham. A meeting was held in Chicago, Gov. Cox said, at which Will H. Hays "spoke his language."

Produced Quota List

The governor charged that typewritten sheets bearing the 51 cities quota were "distributed to those who would" and he produced one of the alleged quota lists, but did not state how or where it was acquired. The quota plan, he said, was carried out like that of the Liberty Loan campaign.

That the reported attempts to raise $14,000,000 in 27 of the 48 states to fair evidence that the Republican fund will be much larger was declared by Gov. Cox, who said the donors were prominent in the Republican party means considerable and that the raising of funds was on business "voluntarism" basis.

Gov. Cox also quoted from state bulletins in the Republican "Bulletin" that state and county organizations were not to be disturbed or retarded in their activities.

Attention to Chairman Hays

Gov. Cox called attention to Chairman Hays' statement that $3,000,000 was being raised for the campaign. Gov. Cox said that today's figures showed that the Republican fund would be about $1,500,000.

From the evidence which we shall see, Gov. Cox added, "I think you will agree that we are justified in charging Mr. Upham's figures by the way."

Days of Mark Hanna

Gov. Cox, standing staunchly by his charges, said that the Republican slush fund was being made, declared that the senatorial oligarchy and their friends are backing back to

THE "SOVIET NAPOLEON" REPLACED BY TROTSKY

WARSAW, Aug. 26.—By The Associated Press.—(General Tuchaevskid, known as the "Soviet Napoleon," has been relieved of his post as commander in chief of the Bolshevik army on the Polish front because of his failure to take Warsaw, according to information given to the press here.

Leon Trotsky, Bolshevik minister of war and marine, has personally taken command of the army. It is reported by Bolshevik officers who have been taken prisoner.

General Tuchaevskid has had a remarkable career in the Russian army. He is of noble birth, and at the outbreak of the World war was captured by the Germans. Later he escaped and resumed his place in the army, rising to the rank of lieutenant. When the Soviet government was established, he was promoted, and rose to high command, being credited with the defeat of Admiral Kolchak in Siberia, and General Denikin in southern Russia. He is only 28 years old.

ently except the stiff shock of expressed public condemnation at the polls will be effective."

Commercial Enthusiasm

Gov. Cox recalled how the Republican party and means committee was organized last December and its work, he said, was "thoroughly pushed from the first." Its local chairman he said, were "business men, in most instances very wealthy men." In this connection he quoted from a letter of John Kirby, Jr., chairman of the Dayton, Ohio, committee of Feb. 7th last, stating: "This is purely a business men's movement. It took on the impetus of a commercial enthusiasm." Gov. Cox continued.

Organize Every County

"The philosophy running through all the literature of capitalism, the recurrent terms of capitalism, the plan was not only to organize every state, but every county in the United States. Definite quotas were established in precisely the same manner as the Liberty Loan campaign was conducted; population and bank deposits were taken into consideration, state managers were engaged and traveling representatives operated between them and the community organizations."

Calls 'Em Money Diggers

Gov. Cox described the fund managers in the various districts as "money diggers" and continued: "The sum of $5,145,000 is to come not from 27 states but from the latest cities in 27 states." He represented by only four places New York City, Buffalo, Rochester and Albany and yet Franklin D. Roosevelt announced that the county of Dutchess, a suburban and rural community was assessed $32,100.

The Columbus, O., quota is $100,000 and yet in the bulletin of August 10, a telegram from Columbus is inserted carrying these reassuring words: "Then too, the end is not yet, for it is probably the sum of $100,000 for the state and national treasury will stand to the credit of Columbus before the first day of September." This is how it was done: Two busy men were two hours a day for ten consecutive days interviewing and soliciting and they turned the trick. Every state director, every city director, can do like Kelly 24—get the right man to see the right people. Do it quickly and successfully."

Portsmouth Quota Quickly Raised

"In Ohio we find, according to the bulletin of August 15, that 'Quota business men have undertaken quotas to be delivered by September first. By that we are to understand that a group of business men produced the money and they are to do effective

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Retail prices in the opinion of the federal reserve board will decline slightly during the coming fall and winter months and will slump next spring to still lower levels.

Summarizing recent changes in prices of various commodities, the board in a report last night said that "saving afforded by manufacturers through increased efficiency of labor must, eventually be reflected in a downward movement of retail prices."

Although a general slight slump in retail prices during the next few months was forecast the board was of the opinion that in some lines higher

The Rev. John G. Benson, pastor of the Union Methodist Episcopal church, at Forty-eighth street and Broadway today announced plans for the erection of a great electric sign that will vie with all others along the "gay white way."

It is to be the largest and most brilliant electric church sign in the world and will display the announcement: "Union Church and Social Center — Always Open."

Above this will be a brilliant cross and red, white and blue lamps will outline the American flag underneath.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 27.—Numerous newly enfranchised Allegheny county women have been defrauded by a bogus tax collector, who went into action shortly after Secretary Gaby signed the proclamation declaring women suffrage law, according to an announcement made today by H. H. Rowand, a local attorney.

The fake collector, Mr. Rowand said, operated in the McKeesport district yesterday, and authorities in all sections of the county were on the lookout for him today.

The bogus agent, victims reported, appeared at their homes, informed them that they must pay him a poll tax if they wanted to vote in November, collected the money, handed out a receipt, and then disappeared.

Carpentier Passes Up Chance To Fight

PENNY ANTE

Tough Luck

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Georges Carpentier, the European heavyweight champion, barely missed participation in a public rough-and-tumble fight at Deauville a few days ago when challenged by a former aviator in the French army.

The pugilist accidentally elbowed the former aviator in a crowd around one of the gaming tables at the Casino.

The aviator thereupon vigorously denounced Carpentier. He accused the champion of spending all his time in Paris during the war and with never having been at the front, and challenged Carpentier to fight on the spot.

During the hubbub Carpentier slipped away. The fighter, together with his manager, will leave France, September 4, on the steamer La Lorraine for the United States.

KOPF IS INJURED

Larry Kopf, star shortstop of the Sox, has a finger badly hurt by a broken ball yesterday. It may be a serious blow to the Sox.

Terry Developing Into Star

Whenever Barney Dreyfus scans the day's box scores he probably feels like kicking himself around his office for a minute or two. For Zeb Terry's name in the Cubs' box score every day must stick out like a railroad signal to Barney.

Last spring Dreyfus had both Zeb Terry and Buster Cato on his club roster to fight it out for the shortstop job. Terry felt that he was worth more than Barney had promised to pay him. The Pirate Dealer and Zeb couldn't agree on terms, so when the Cubs agreed to pay the young man what he asked Dreyfus let him go.

Cato has been doing a good job of short-stopping for the Pirates, but his work doesn't stand out as does that of Terry. This bird has been covering short and second base in brilliant style for Mitchell, and has been hitting around 500. It is said that other National League clubs had a chance to grab Zeb but failed to see him. Looks like Zeb and Vogel Wingle have cause to laugh up their sleeves.

Mrs. Bryce Wing (left) and Viscountess Massereene.

E. O. Hoppe, the famous English winter-photographer, started his career when on his recent trip to the United States he stated pictures of American women who.

It is alleged, are prettier than England's fairest. One of the English women, who, according to Mr. Hoppe, are prettier than anything to be seen in the U. S., is Viscountess Massereene. Compare her picture with that of Mrs. Bryce Wing of New York. No less an authority than the Grand Duke Michaelovich, cousin of the former czar of Russia, has declared Mrs. Wing to be the most beautiful woman in the world.

TWO BIG GAMES TODAY

Well, the big show starts in Cincinnati today, that is if rain does not interfere. The Reds and Giants are down on the program to play two games, and no doubt Moran will trot out Ruether and Luque, his two star hurlers. If they should turn winners the Giants' chances would receive a serious setback. If they should win, that's different.

Reds Must Pin Faith On Ruether And Luque

Here is what Philon says about the Reds' pennant chances: On the recovery and future fortunes of two lame-armed pitchers the Reds rest all their hopes, and their chances for the flag. If Luque and Ruether can come back strong and husky, and then, Ring is good about three times out of five. Napier turned in a winner on his first start, but is hardly likely to be counted as a regular, taking turn and turn.

St. Louis Players Discuss Mays' Case

BOSTON, Aug. 27.—Both the St. Louis and Boston clubs of the American league have received the communication from Cleveland players regarding their feeling toward Carl Mays, the New York pitcher. The members of the St. Louis team discussed the matter at a meeting, but whether they took any action could not be ascertained.

Harry Hooper, captain of the Red Sox, to whom the communication to the Boston club was addressed, said the local players might meet to consider it after the game today. The terms of the communication were not disclosed, Hooper and other players saying they felt that if made public it should be by the Cleveland club.

Pitches No Hit Game

ST. PAUL, Aug. 27.—Charles Hall, hurler in the American Association, in point of games won, pitched a no-hit game against Columbus in the first game of a double header with St. Paul today. St. Paul won, 6 to 0.

Your House Plants.
The professional florist understands that although house plants must be kept moist they must never be allowed to become soggy. To begin with, they should be well drained. Broken pots or chinders should be placed below the earth they grow in. The soil should be mixed with sand, loam to lighten it. Never water a plant until the soil on top is almost dry. Then water it thoroughly, drench it, but let the water drain out through the bottom of the pot, and never let it stand in the saucer under the pot, for it becomes stagnant and injures the plant.

Well Known Colored Citizen Is Almost Instantly Killed; On Ninth St. By Multer Car

James H. Turner, 61, a well-known colored citizen, who made his home with William L. Cornute, 224 Ninth street, was struck and instantly killed by an automobile driven by Fred Multer at 8:00 o'clock Thursday evening, as he was crossing the street near Ninth and Findlay streets.

In the Multer machine were Multer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Multer, 735 Seventh street, and Oscar Simpson, 725 Seventh street, who shared the front seat with Multer.

The accident was witnessed by Wm. L. Cornute, Mrs. Lillias Holman, 224 Ninth street, Mrs. Frank Mingo, 239 Ninth street, Mrs. Edward J. Kelley, 225 Ninth street, and Miss Anna T. Smith, 220 Ninth.

According to some of those who say they were eye-witnesses to the tragic affair, Multer was driving at a rapid rate when his machine struck the man, although Mr. Multer and son strenuously denied last night the report that they were exceeding the speed limit, and declared that the car was being driven at only a fair rate of speed, and he had slowed down at the intersection.

Mr. Multer Gives Version of Accident.

According to Multer, he was driving west on Ninth street and had almost reached Findlay street, when he saw a machine coming south on Findlay street. In order to allow the other car to pass, he swerved to the left; this bringing his car, past the center of the street, and proceeded down Ninth street. As he passed the intersection, Multer says, he noticed Turner almost crossing the street, and just two doors east of his home, Turner had almost gained the center of the street, and apparently had not noticed the oncoming machine, according to Multer. In order to pass behind the man, Multer says he swerved his car slightly to the left, and was a few feet from him, when Turner looked up bewildered and stopped, then jumped into the path of the machine, according to Multer.

Turner's head was smashed about the left ear, his neck and collar-bone were broken; his left arm above the elbow was broken and also his right leg.

William Cornute and three other men picked up the body and laid it on the grass. Fred Multer stopped his machine after the car had skidded twenty to thirty feet, to within six feet of the south curb in front of the Cornute home, and ran to the office of Dr. S. S. Hallerman. Dr. Hallerman was followed by Dr. Albert Bernitt, but medical aid was of no use, and the lifeless form was carried into the Cornute home.

Police Captain Starzman, Officers Flowers, Payne, Powers and Ode, with a Times man, were soon on the scene.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 27.—Leon Mulder is dead and four other employees of the Handley-Cadillac company were in a serious condition last night as the result of drinking liquor supposed to have contained wood alcohol or other poisonous substance.

Seven employees of the company were given a half holiday to attend the Lawrence County Fair at Proctorville, Ohio, and went to Proctorville in an automobile driven by Edmund Johnson. In Proctorville or Huntington, the men declined to state which liquor they secured two quarts of what was supposed to be bottled in bond whiskey. All drank of it at Proctorville with the exception of the chauffeur. On their return to Huntington five of the men were taken violently ill and Mulder, who is from Ravenswood, W. Va., died within a short time. Three other men, Ray Smith, Charles Miller and Gilbert Stack, all of this city, were taken to a local hospital all suffering from some form of alcoholic poisoning. Smith declined to stay at the hospital after being given first aid and left without the knowledge of the hospital authorities. Shortly before midnight he was found wandering the streets in a delirious condition and was returned to the hospital where he is in a very critical state. The other members of the party are believed to have imbibed rather lightly of the liquor as none of them suffered any serious effect.

All the men except the one who died were able to converse with the authorities, but all absolutely refused to give any intimation of where they had purchased the liquor or from whom.

During the afternoon, J. Warren Murray of this city and F. C. Gordon a professional of Chillicothe staged an exhibition game. Mr. Gordon made the nine hole course in 35, which is the best score that has been made this season on the local links. Salem Shaw 3—W. J. Schwartzbaugh 0.

The visitors were royally entertained and thoroughly enjoyed their visit here. They so expressed themselves before leaving for home in their machines last night.

Inquest Showed Death Due To Hydrophobia

Robert Windle, age 50 years, a well-known farmer of Seaman, Adams county, was adjudged insane by the Probate Court at Blanchester, Wednesday.

Windle might be died in the county jail while waiting to be taken to the Athens State Hospital. The coroner first gave out the verdict that the death was a result of insanity. An inquest, however, proved that prior to two months ago, Windle never gave any of his family nor neighbors the impression that he was insane. At that time a large dog, a family pet of the Windles, bit the deceased on the hand, without provocation.

An inquest was held Thursday and it showed that Windle was suffering from hydrophobia, instead of periodic insanity, as was supposed.
